

Kathleen L. Barrón

Senior Vice President, Federal Regulatory Affairs & Wholesale Market Policy, Exelon Corporation

Profile

Kathleen L. Barrón is senior vice president, federal regulatory affairs and wholesale market policy, for Exelon Corporation. In that role, she oversees Exelon's management of federal regulatory policies and strategies and is responsible for identifying and assessing key policy issues of interest to Exelon, crafting the company's position on such issues, and developing strategies for achieving Exelon's public policy objectives. She also is responsible for managing the company's wholesale market design advocacy in each of the regional markets where the company operates.

Professional History

Prior to joining Exelon, Barrón was the deputy general counsel at the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), where she advised the Commission on all aspects of its responsibilities and represented the Commission before Congress, government agencies, and industry groups. Previously, Barrón was the FERC's associate general counsel for energy markets, where she led a group of about 90 lawyers on legal and policy matters related to electric power sales and transportation, electric system reliability, corporate regulation of public utilities and natural gas and oil pipeline transportation. Prior to joining FERC, Barrón was in private practice with the law firm Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher and Flom LLP. There, she represented utility and independent power producer clients in proceedings before FERC, U.S. Courts of Appeal, and state utility commissions.

Education

Barrón received a juris doctor from the University of Houston Law Center and a bachelor of arts in political science from American University.

Family

Barrón, 44, is married with three children.
